

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am disappointed by the foolish position taken by the National Association of Broadcasters in their petition (04-160) and I urge that it be rejected. It seems to me that this restricts the options of consumers, myself included. Surely the addition of new broadcast opportunities, including sattellite radio, to local audiences benefits consumers and the public interest at large. The NAB is simply trying to protect their virtual monopoly against outsiders. The FCC should reject this petition in the strongest possible terms.

Sincerely,
James L. Quinn, Jr.
